SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1878.

THE controversy between New York It is controversy between New York and Brooklyn in respect to the uncomposited bridge by which it is proposed to connect the two, cities has reached the point of a judicial decision, though not a final one. The act which provides for the building of the Brooklyn bridge by New York and Brooklyn bridge by New York and Brooklyn joinily, fixes eight million dollars as the limit of its cost. A strong feeling has arisen in New York against the completion of the bridge, which would be to the especial advantage of Brooklyn. So when it was discovered that the work could not be finished within the eight million limit, New York refused to contribute further, on this and other grounds. The bridge trustees applied for a mandamus to compel the New York and thorities to issue bonds to the amount of one million dollars and pay the proceeds to them. A refusal of this request by Judge Barrett is the decision to which we have referred. The case will now go to the general term of the Supreme Court on appeal by the trustees. Meanwhile the loss in interest is at the rate of $2,000 a day. If the ruling of a higher court or supplementary action by the legislature does not authorize the expenditure of the amount necestive the expenditure of the amount necestive the expenditure of the amount action by the legislature does not authorize the expenditure of the amount necestive the expenditure of the amount nece and Brooklyn in respect to the uncom-pleted bridge by which it is proposed to action by the legislature does not authorize the expenditure of the amount neces sary to complete the bridge, the outlay of $4,500,000 already made will be lost, except so far as it is represented by useless there can be no doubt that there are too many banks, i. c., too many separate organizations for carrying on the business. Each bank must have an expensive safe, a tively, as it must be in a central and convenient position, and officers enough do all its work promptly at all leave only the deposits from which to et money to pay dividends, diminished some extent, by the payment of interest on deposits. There are few banks in Boston that could not take care of double the amount of deposits they now have, or double their business, with very little increase of expense. The true remedy is to wind up some of the banks. Their deposits would go to the remaining banks, and these banks could then earn a moderate profit—all that any business can at present expect. Let two-fifths of the banks be closed; there would be a reduction of capital, of course, and if this proved undesirable the remaining banks could increase e extent, by the payment of interest able the remaining banks could increase their capital, but there would be a very great reduction in the cost of doing the banking business."

MINISTER Noves in a letter replying to Florida by Mr. Saltonstall, of Massachuattempts to bribe and corrupt them with large sums of money in Mr. Tilden's interest—the very day we started home from Florida I said to McLin and Cowgill that they had bravely and honestly done their duty; that I should take pleasure in saying so to President Hayes, and that if at any time I could be of use to them they could command me. But before the decision never an intimation or suggestion of reward was made."

If the rooms below had been properly lighted I have no doubt the picture would have been one of the grandest in the world. We could find no outlet from the White Chamber, but immediately to the left of it found another aperture which led us into a narrow corridor, which gradually opened up as we proceeded, and ran off in a southwesterly direction. We followed it a long distance, but our lights commencing to fail, we harried back to the White Chamber, where we fastoned a string which we unrolled as we proceeded downward. Upon reaching the floor, of Giant Hall, we found we had played out about two hundred and twenty

We are happy to say that business in most every branch has improved greatly within the pastiew weeks, and great hopes are entertained of it continuing through the winter.

R. Lyman Potter, the wheelbarrow-man, arrived in this city from Albany on the 25th ult., twenty-two days ahead of his time, and is now completing his walk at Woodward's Gardens. That, together with a baloon ascension, last Sunday, attracted an attendance to these gardens of more than twenty-five thousand people.

The exciting Stock Market on Pine and California streets, has been very good for several days past, most every stock of the Comstock ledge increasing two and three hundred dollars a share. This, together with many of the "Wild Cat" stocks, have kept up a lively market.

with many of the "Wild Cat" stocks, have kept up a lively market.

The election news from the Eastern States caused considerable excitement in this city. Great interest by all parties was manifested by bulletin boards being conmanifested by bulletin boards being conspicuously placed bearing the latest telegrams. The one looked to with most interest was the glorious defeat of Ben Buller, notwithstanding the egotism of Koarney, that the streets would run with blood if Butler was defeated. He now consoles himself that he will elect all the city officials of Boaton, then return to Frisco. We are sadly in need of him here, for all the Chinese have not gone yet, only fifty thousand remaining in this city.

Col. T. A. Bee, altorney for the six comples of this city, who made a speech at try were utterly erroneous. He said all the people on this coast were in favor of Chinese immigration but the Irish. This s the people on this coast were in tavor of Chinese immigration but the frish. This is not so. By taking a thorough and impartial canvass, it will be found that nine-tenths of the American residents, not including the Irish, are opposed to Chinese immigration. It is true all those that are making millions, as many capitalists are by this speculation, are in favor of their immigration. However, take the uninterested applicable of this pestiferous race. It is not the persons themselves, but the masses that are perpetually coming, which will eventually have possession of this coast. Giving the views of some eminent writers, this is the impression of the intelligent class and not the Kearneyites as it were. We will give more of an imparsial view on this all absorbting subject at some future time.
